Dear Santa Feans,

Three years ago, we embarked on the next leg of Santa Fe’s centuries-long journey.

We were coming out from the shadow of the McHard Report, a document that laid bare a record of poor management—and even mis-management—that had afflicted City government for decades. We were emerging with a renewed sense of opportunity and possibility enabled by a Charter change approved by the voters of Santa Fe. We were determined to work together to add a new, uplifting chapter to the story of Santa Fe.

As Santa Fe’s first full-time Mayor, I made it my purpose to bring positive change to City government. In response to the McHard Report, I assembled an outstanding team of leaders and managers to guide our City with competence and confidence. Operating as a consistent, coherent and coordinated administration—a unified team—we determined to do the work the people of Santa Fe expect their local government to do.

We committed this administration to:

Make City government work.

We will make the investments in people and technology to modernize, professionalize, streamline and make transparent all aspects of our City in order to deliver the essential services the people of Santa Fe deserve and expect and to provide unequaled constituent services to every resident of Santa Fe.

Make City government work for all.

We will make investments in every district and neighborhood of the city to promote equity and opportunity, to promote livability and sustainability and to bring Santa Fe together as a unified community.

Make City government work for our future.

We will make investments that ensure the capacity of City government to solve our problems today and prevent them from happening in the future; that make good on commitments now and instill hope for the future; and that demonstrate the growing competency of City government today and provide confidence that what we do matters as we work together to create the future we want for our children and our children's children.

Those were the overarching themes embodied in my first three budgets.

This budget represents the culmination of the themes and investments contained in those three previous documents.

In this budget we reaffirm our commitment to “put people first.”

Recognizing the extraordinary effort that our City employees have made in the face of the devastating impacts of COVID in this past year, this budget provides an amount equivalent to a 4% increase to salary, and all salary-dependent benefits, for members of AFSCME Local 3999, for the Santa Fe Police Officer's Association, IAFF Local 2059 and our non-union employees.

In addition, this budget provides funding to cover the health insurance costs of our employees without putting any additional burden on them—a recognition of the continuing impact of COVID on the health and wellbeing of our valued and valuable workforce.

As a commitment to the future of our people, we also are funding a new Classification and Compensation study in the year ahead. In my first year as Mayor, we made the promise to find the money to implement the Classification and Compensation study that had been undertaken but left unfinished. At that time, we did the right thing: we provided $1.5 million to roughly 600 City employees up to market rate compensation levels. Now it is time to renew our commitment to pay our people what they are worth and what the market says they deserve. This study makes good on that commitment.

Finally, we are proposing a total expenditure of $350,000 to invest in City-wide employee training; funding for safety training and supplies; and funding for tuition assistance for employees who are seeking additional education.

In this budget we reaffirm our commitment to our community's health and safety—the highest priority of our administration.

Last year we successfully adopted a reorganization of Santa Fe City government. We took a sprawling, siloed government structure and gave it shape, structure and shared purpose. Among the many changes created by that reorganization, none is more important than the creation of the Community Health and Safety Department. It represents a fundamental tenet of this administration: health and safety are inextricably connected. Keeping people safe is keeping people healthy; keeping people healthy is keeping people safe.

Across America, we are seeing cities re-imagine their approach to policing; re-committing to social services that provide the support that individuals and families need to recover, heal and thrive—especially in a post-COVID environment; anticipating threats to health and safety before they turn into crises; and developing innovative approaches that address long-standing problems.

This budget puts us in the vanguard of all of these efforts.

We are investing in life-saving behavioral health services for children, adults and seniors.

We are addressing the underlying social determinants of health: housing, food, mobility, utilities and personal safety.

We are adding support for our seniors to provide enhanced transportation, navigational support for critical services, and more meals and meal services.

We are restoring our treasured library services and filling positions—because our libraries are centers of community learning and living.

We are adding 15 temporary employees to our Wildland Fire Division, knowing that we are facing high-risk fire conditions as a consequence of climate change.

We are budgeting the funds necessary to provide our firefighters with the retirement benefits they are due—an important change that we recognized and successfully fought for at the recent session of the State Legislature. We are also adding between 15-20 new cadets in this budget and restoring funding for firefighter positions that had to be frozen last year.

We are renewing the Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault coordinator to the Police Department, putting money and resources into our commitment to help the victims of this horrible crime.

We are restoring funding for 13 previously frozen positions in the Police Department, a commitment to attracting new cadets to the re-opened Police Academy; we will also replace vehicles. We are also putting money into a comprehensive study of the Police Department workload and calls for service. This study, much like the one we did to evaluate our approach to recruiting, developing, promoting and retaining officers, will provide a much-needed evaluation of the size, structure, operations and deployment of our public safety officers. Our aim, as always, is to achieve the highest level of service and safety for our officers and all the people of Santa Fe.

In this budget we reaffirm our commitment to invest in community—in housing and livable neighborhoods.

Over the last three years we've made steady and substantial progress on our promise to provide more affordable housing—more housing of all kinds—and desirable, livable and attractive neighborhoods in all parts of Santa Fe. In this budget we are investing in a floor of $3 million for our Affordable Housing Trust Fund and an additional position in our Office of Affordable Housing to provide the management and oversight needed to make sure that this significant increase in funding is leveraged for the maximum benefit of the people of Santa Fe.

As Mayor, I have consistently said, “The future of Santa Fe runs through the Department of Planning and Land Use.” Coming out of COVID, where so many of our community needs were made painfully manifest, we see the need to give that pivotal department the resources it needs to fulfill its role. Acting on a recommendation we initially received from the Santa Fe Homebuilders, we are adding a new position to support communication and coordination. We are also adding a new position to make sure we do a better job of managing the use of our impact fees. We are adding or “unfreezing” other vitally important positions in Planning and Land Use in order to improve the timeliness and responsiveness of this essential department. In the year ahead we expect Santa Fe to “build back better.” We need the people, technology and management systems to make sure that the City is an excellent partner in the projects we know are under construction or in the pipeline.

The mid-town campus represents a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for the City of Santa Fe. It is one single site where we can locate—and realize—so many of our aspirations. It is a project that can make manifest so many of our shared values. To help move this project forward, we have added a new position dedicated to the project and to the site.

As we grow as a city, we face a unique challenge: Every day we feel how special we are. We experience our sense of being special. Santa Fe is a treasure to the people who live here now and a magnet to people who want to come here.

Our strong love for Santa Fe’s past means we have a deep responsibility for Santa Fe’s future. How do we grow without sacrificing the qualities that make our city “different”? We know we cannot stop change. Nor can we permit unbridled change. Our task is to channel change, to choose the kind of change, the speed of change, the direction of change that matches our sense of ourselves—across time.

To that end, this budget proposes three special investments. First, we are adding additional funding to the Historic Preservation Division of the Planning and Land Use Department. Second, we will begin a multi-year project to update our entire Land Use Code. This is a project that would have commenced last year but had to be temporarily shelved due to COVID. We have restored it this year, fully recognizing the need to make our old code match new realities.

Finally—and perhaps most importantly—we have put money in this budget to begin a comprehensive Growth Management Study. We need a community-wide conversation about this city’s future. How much housing do we need—and how much housing can we accommodate? How do we plan for more people, more jobs, more water use, more mobility—and also plan to keep Santa Fe Santa Fe? Those are only some of the fundamental questions that we are called upon to answer. This Growth Management Study is long overdue. We haven’t undertaken an update to the City’s comprehensive plan since it was adopted in 1999. Today we know that a better way to frame the choices for our future isn’t simply to do a standard update to that plan. What we need is a deep, wide, inclusive process that involves our entire community in the issue that frames all of our choices: How do we choose the amount and kind of growth we want?

It’s our responsibility to chart the smart change we want for Santa Fe.

In this budget we reaffirm our commitment to our entire community’s quality of life—our parks, recreation centers, streets and roadways.

In Santa Fe we are justifiably proud of our city’s “look and feel.” But the COVID-created crisis of last year severely reduced our ability to fund many of the amenities that we enjoy and curtailed our capacity to maintain our city’s cherished appearance.

With this budget, we will once again make Santa Fe look like, feel like and have fun like we know we should.

We are investing more than $1 million in family-friendly recreation programs, including opening all three of our recreation centers—and fully funding all of our life-guard positions.

We are investing more than $1 million in our City parks, including tot lots and playground equipment upgrades; litter cleanup and port-a-potties; trail maintenance programs; tree planting and implementation of the newly created TreeSmart Santa Fe program.

We are committing the resources to take on our annual battle with the weeds in our medians—and we are committed to winning that battle through investments in better design, irrigation, tools and equipment and dedicated workers.

In this budget we reaffirm our commitment to community engagement.

The people of Santa Fe are the riches of our city. In our neighborhoods and our non-profit organizations we have a reservoir of talent, volunteerism, caring and concern that is far greater and deeper than any other place in this country. The heart and soul of Santa Fe resides in the hearths and homes of the people of Santa Fe. We all know how fortunate—how truly blessed—we are to call this place home.

It is the privilege and responsibility of the City government to serve and to tap that reservoir—to engage everyone in our community in the act of participation. Democracy is not—cannot be—a spectator sport. We all have a responsibility to stand up, speak up and take up the cause of Santa Fe.

To that end, we are funding a community-wide conversation about our past, our present and our future. We are recipients of centuries of history—of events marked both by blood and compassion. Better than almost any-place else, we have found ways to live and work together. And yet we have not had the essential, if difficult, courageous conversations we need to have, the conversations this moment calls us to conduct. Fully funding the CHART process will give everyone in Santa Fe the time, space, respect and opportunity we need to listen to and learn from each other. It is the essence of community. It is the hard work of community building and community healing.

We are also providing funds to conduct the requirement that we review and revise the four districts of the city to reflect changing population trends. Like the CHART process, this act of democracy must be fully transparent to everyone in our community.

Finally, we are adding positions and resources to continue the evolution of the Community Engagement Department, which was created by last year's reorganization. This department represents "the front door to City government"—and it is ready for improved technology, better communication, fuller transparency and more accessibility.

In this budget we reaffirm our commitment to modernizing, professionalizing and streamlining City government.

Every part of this budget depends on one central part of the budget: Improvements to the capacities and capabilities of the government of the City of Santa Fe. These internal investments may be invisible to the people of the city, but they are essential to the accomplishment of the work that serves the people of the city.

In the year ahead we anticipate that we will continue to receive a significant increase in funding for public works projects. The challenge will change from seeking funding for important projects to improving the management of those projects. With that in mind, we are adding five new project management positions to build our oversight capacity.

If we didn't know it already, COVID has shown us how critical information technology and 21st century communications are to the accomplishment of every task in City government and to the wellbeing of every resident and business in Santa Fe. This budget contains $670,000 for six new positions in the Information Technology and Telecommunications Department to create a new Project Management Office.

As an ongoing commitment to our financial management capabilities and fiscal transparency, we are putting $500,000 toward audit preparation and an improved capability for a timely audit submission.

Recognizing the significantly greater workload that we anticipate will result from new opportunities for increased federal funding opportunities, numerous budget adjustments, additional procurement requirements and growing financial transactions, we are adding six new positions in the Finance Department; a new position in the Treasury Division, funded by the Lodger's Tax to oversee compliance and process tax receipts; and a new position to manage City-wide risk costs.

It needs to be said: Last year was hard.

COVID changed our lives and sapped our livelihoods. We lost friends and loved ones. We lost the fun and familiarity of our way of life, our festivals and fiestas. Our kids lost a year of in-person school, a year of sports and activities—a year where kids could just be kids.

COVID was a health crisis, an economic crisis, a social justice crisis, an emotional and spiritual crisis.

Businesses closed. Mom and pop shops closed. Restaurants and hotels closed. Our heritage events were canceled. City Hall was closed—literally.

Through it all, we kept on going. We kept on caring, we kept on adapting and changing, we kept on working, we kept moving forward on our journey—together.

We suffered losses. But we were never lost.

We had our defeats. But we were never defeated.

We endured hardships. And now we are emerging, stronger, more resilient, more confident, more optimistic and more determined than before.

We are back.

The City government—your City government—is building back to serve you. To solve problems. To invest in our future. To rebuild, restore, and rebound.

This budget has a story and a message.

It is the story of the people of Santa Fe: People who responded to the challenge of COVID as one community and who will now advance the cause of Santa Fe as one community.

It is the story of frontline workers in hospitals and clinics, fire stations and police cars, supermarkets and pharmacies, school rooms and Zoom classes, who put our community first—and who now are hearing our thanks.

It is the story of neighbors caring for neighbors, of volunteers taking care of perfect strangers who became great new friends.

It is the story of hardworking City employees and managers, working in new and innovative ways to keep our remarkable and historic city always moving forward, always moving together.

This is who we are. This is how we do things. This is how we live.

This is the chapter we have just written together in the ongoing story of Santa Fe.

Now we are asked to write a new chapter.

The start of that new chapter is the message in this budget.

With replenished resources and restored capacity, with hope in our hearts and strength in our hands, with love for our city and respect for each other, we are ready to take on the important work that lies ahead.

It is the work of making a better future for everyone in Santa Fe. It is a message of optimism and opportunity—for ourselves, our children and our children's children.

Santa Fe, it is our turn to answer this call. This is our time and our opportunity.

Santa Fe, this City of Holy Faith, is filled with faith in ourselves and faith in each other.

I'm grateful to all of you. Thank you.

Alan Webber
Mayor

IV. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY- CITY OF SANTA FE RESPONDS, REBALANCES, AND REBUILDS

The City of Santa Fe Responds and Rebalances- FY20 and FY21 Budget Review

Over the last year, the Santa Fe community has responded to the coronavirus pandemic with extraordinary measures. As our City was confronted with a public health crisis that hasn't been seen for a century, our community rose to the challenges of implementing a mask ordinance, social distancing and safety protocols to keep each other safe. As the Santa Fe Promise committed, we did this together. Safe together. Open together. All together.

Despite our collective efforts the pandemic continued throughout the year which meant that social distancing and the safety protocols restricting capacity and changing operations throughout various economic sectors was necessary throughout 2020 and part of 2021. As a result, these changes negatively impacted economic activity in our community, impacting businesses and residents and City revenues as well. Over the last year, businesses in Santa Fe closed- some temporarily, some permanently - and the unemployment rate soared to one of the highest rates seen in the last several decades. The global pandemic brought the period of the longest economic expansion in U.S. history to an unexpected and sudden end.

Our City relies heavily on tax revenue generated by the city's tourism and hospitality industries, whose activity was reduced drastically during the restrictions throughout 2020 and 2021. With revenue down, the City recognized that responding with proactive management would make the difference in managing through the fiscal crisis without negative impacts to our financial system in the long run. Throughout this time of crisis and uncertainty, a proactive and nimble management response to address the evolving situation was critical in maintaining stable government finances.

As we re-balanced the FY21 Budget, it was uncertain exactly when and how the Santa Fe economy, and therefore City of Santa Fe revenues, would rebound. Throughout the last year we continued to experience a period of uncertainty and tremendous change in our community as the public health crisis continued. Much of the significant drop in City revenue in 2020 was due to the loss of tourism, hotel occupancy, accommodations, and retail trade, since COVID-19 reduced discretionary travel, as well as activity for retail and restaurants. In July of 2020 the City was able to rebalance the FY21 budget and achieve a balanced budget without resorting to increases in taxes. Making early fiscally responsible decisions in 2020 gave the City the ability to function effectively through the uncertainty of this crisis and into the recovery and rebuilding period.

While we continued to face uncertainty about the severity of the economic crisis and corresponding municipal revenue declines, the City also continued to find efficiencies and prioritized investing in innovative solutions to provide services. Through it all, City staff has worked diligently to manage expenditures and deliver vital services to the community. Nearly a year later, the City of Santa Fe government has continued to operate through the COVID-19 pandemic and corresponding economic downturn. The City continued to provide high levels of service to the community while addressing the needs of our most vulnerable residents and providing support to the City's business community. The variety of measures the City of Santa Fe undertook included social distancing and limiting gatherings, closing facilities and canceling events, and standing up an E-Government and an emergency homeless shelter, thereby assisting in preventing the spread of the virus.

While revenue growth has not recovered to pre-pandemic levels as of yet, trends in collections throughout FY21 have led to a positive forecast for FY22. Today, as transmission rates decrease, vaccination rates increase and restrictions are relaxed, there are positive economic and revenue trends developing in Santa Fe and further opportunities to position our community for success in a number of areas. These positive trends also have implications for the FY22 Budget and provide further opportunities to position the City to begin the period of recovery and rebuilding.

Although there are positive trends, certain revenues are still reduced due to ongoing effects of the COVID pandemic and City revenues continue to reflect the adverse impacts of the ongoing pandemic into the upcoming fiscal year.

The City of Santa Fe Rebuilds - FY22 Recommended Budget

FY22 All Funds revenues are still less than was seen 2 years ago in FY19, before the COVID pandemic occurred, by approximately $22.9 million, and are not projected to fully recover to pre-COVID levels in FY22. The FY22 All Funds expenditures total $348.6 million, an increase of $36.1 million or 11.6 percent across all funds from the FY21 budgeted levels at mid-year. The FY22 General Fund expenditures total $105.9 million, an increase of $12.2 million or 13.1 percent from the FY21 budgeted levels at midyear.

Despite the challenges of the impacts of COVID-19, the FY22 Recommended Budget begins to look forward with optimism to plan for the needs of the post-pandemic rebuilding and recovery period. As the Mayor and Council move forward into FY22 and work together to lead the City into a post-pandemic era, the FY22 Budget prioritizes making strategic investments in the City's quality of life. During these unprecedented times, the City must continue to provide Santa Fe residents and businesses the services they expect, while addressing our community's critical needs as the pandemic continues. Most importantly, it will require a unified effort by the City government and our community partners for Santa Fe to recover and build back better from the effects the public health crisis.

The FY22 Recommended Budget invests in rebuilding post-pandemic for a future in Santa Fe where all people can afford to live and enjoy a healthy and safe environment. The FY22 Recommended Budget also continues to invest in our workforce that has made extraordinary efforts to keep Santa Fe operating during the pandemic and has provided opportunities to modernize government, which improve residents' experiences with government operations. The FY22 Recommended Budget is a fiscally responsible budget that focuses on strategic investments in critical areas including:

Next Steps

Although the FY22 Recommended Budget was developed in a period of continued uncertainty about the economic, public health, and social impacts of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, the FY22 budget meets the City's financial obligations, including debt service, and leverages the City's resources into shared priorities. Through the guidance of the Mayor and Council, the City's management team and staff will continue to meet the needs and challenges facing the City.

The public health emergency's ebb and flow will continue to dictate the depth and duration of the economic and fiscal crisis. For that reason, Budget staff have committed to bringing quarterly budget adjustments to the Council as actual revenue receipts are assessed throughout the fiscal year. As was done in FY21, adjustments to the FY22 budget will be very likely through the coming fiscal year. If additional funding becomes available during the course of FY22, City staff is committed to bringing forward budget adjustments in order to continue to invest in critical service areas that are identified throughout the upcoming budget hearings.

New federal economic stimulus aid was approved in the American Recovery Plan Act in March 2021, however, that aid is not included in this proposed budget. As part of the American Recovery Plan Act, the City is set to receive approximately $15 million in funding to support those still in crisis, while also rebuilding the City's economic base and restoring the City's operations.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT

RICHARD BROWN, COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT DIRECTOR

Department Mission

The mission of the Community Development Department is to create a Santa Fe where business, arts and culture thrive for residents and tourists. This Department provides for alignment of programs and funding, focused on economic opportunities that connect the City's current land use development to the longstanding need for additional affordable housing, and ensuring the cultural connection to the City's history is a core component of the Department's mission.

Department Description of Services

The Department is made up of the following: Affordable Housing, Arts and Culture, Economic Development, Planning and Land Use, and Tourism.

AFFORDABLE HOUSING

ALEXANDRA LADD, AFFORDABLE HOUSING DIRECTOR

Mission

The Office of Affordable Housing works proactively with public, nonprofit, and private sectors to increase affordable housing opportunities for Santa Fe's low- and moderate-income residents, addressing the needs of all residents from the homeless to the homeowner.

Description of Services

Office of Affordable Housing has a long history of supporting affordable housing through regulation (inclusionary zoning), policy (1999 General Plan, Consolidated Plan, Five-Year Strategic Plan, Analysis of Fair Housing), real estate development (Tierra Contenta, donation of City-owned land), and programming (financial support for homebuyer training/counseling, home repair, down payment assistance, and rental assistance). Housing needs are addressed across a spectrum, from the homeless to the homeowner, and rely on an established network of community partners, including the public, nonprofit, and private sectors. To this end, the bulk of the proposed budget is used to support staff time to administer federal grant money from HUD (CDBG and Continuum of Care/Shelter Plus Care), general funds to sub-recipients who, in turn, provide services directly to those in need, and implementation of Chapter 26. This chapter includes the Santa Fe Homes Program (SFHP) which requires a percentage of housing built by private developers to be set aside for income-certified, low- and moderate-income residents, the Affordable Housing Trust Fund (funded through local development revenues), and fair housing.

FY22 Recommended Budget

Affordable Housing's total FY22 Recommended Budget increased by $4.7 million, or 155.5%, from the FY21 budgeted levels. The Affordable Housing's General Fund FY22 Recommended Budget increased by $168,422, or 18.4%, from the FY21 budgeted levels.

The City continues to face challenges associated with an ongoing lack of affordable housing. This crisis has been exacerbated by the onset and continuation of the coronavirus pandemic. The Office of Affordable Housing is focused on making leveraged investments from the Affordable Housing Trust Fund in FY21 totaling $3 million to support affordable housing projects that serve the whole community, from the homeless to the homeowner.

The FY22 Recommended Budget includes the following:

- In the FY22 Recommended Budget, the City continues its commitment to Affordable Housing allocating an additional $3 million to the Affordable Housing Trust Fund.
- The City will also add 1 FTE to support additional resources in the Affordable Housing Trust Fund.

The Monica Roybal Youth Center and Carlos Ortega Teen Center provide after school and summer programs. Students are transported from 14 different schools around Santa Fe, including during school holidays and winter closures. Both the Monica Roybal Youth Center and the Carlos Ortega Teen Center offer healthy meals and snacks each day, tutoring assistance, recreation, arts and crafts, and a computer lab for homework for youth and their families who don't have computer access at home. The program works with community non-profit partners to offer quality educational enrichment activities from a number of community organizations. The Division collaborates with City partners such as the Santa Fe Police Department, which works with youth and staff to educate them on issues including bullying, cyber bullying and substance abuse; the Parks and Recreation Department offers access to City facilities. Three staff of the Youth and Family Services Division operate Community Programs. They staff task forces and Mayor's initiatives, along with the Children Youth Commission (CYC), Veterans Advisory Board, the Mayor's Youth Advisory Board, the Immigration Committee, the Regional Juvenile Justice Board and the Human Services Committee.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

PAUL BABCOCK, FIRE CHIEF

Mission and Description of Services

The Fire Department's mission is to preserve life and property through public education and prompt, efficient emergency response. The Department is dedicated to serving the best interest of the public by taking the steps necessary to reduce human suffering as well as the preventable loss of life and property. Members commit to continued learning, personal growth, and professional development, and at all times work in a respectful, honest, and professional manner with each other, the public, and the members of all other agencies. Above all else, the Department's members prize the dignity of human life and strive to treat all people with the compassion, professionalism, and understanding they deserve.

FY22 Recommended Budget

Fire Department's total FY22 Recommended Budget increased by $4.3 million, or 19.7%, from the FY21 budgeted levels. The Fire Department's General Fund FY22 Recommended Budget decreased by $4.5 million, or 22.9%, from the FY21 budgeted levels. The FY22 Recommended Budget includes the following:

- $100 thousand for Firefighter Equitable Retirement- State law has historically and unfairly prohibited some firefighters who work certain schedules from obtaining the full retirement credit for all hours they work. During the 2021 legislative session, Senate Bill 90 proposed changes to the state law to allow hours-worked to be counted, so that when it comes time for our firefighters to retire, they have the retirement benefits to which they are entitled. The legislature passed Senate Bill 90 and Governor Lujan Grisham signed the bill into law this year. In response, the City is committing over $100 thousand to implement the City's portion of the increases in firefighter retirement contributions.
- To continue our commitment to responding appropriately to behavioral health-related 911 calls, the City is allocating $475 thousand for an expansion of the Alternative Response Unit. This expansion will bring on four (4) additional FTE for the Alternative Response Unit, including: (1) Case Management Supervisor who will provide clinical, operational and administrative support for all Case Managers; (1) EMS Captain to provide assessment, treatment and navigation with a specialty in medical issues; and (2) Case Managers to provide assessment, treatment and navigation with a specialty in social and behavioral health issues. The funding also covers costs associated with start-up, supplies and equipment.

FISCAL YEAR 2022 - RECOMMENDED BUDGET

- To ensure Wildland Fire readiness in what is expected to be a high-risk season due to extended drought, and because grant funding decreased in FY21, the City is investing $500 thousand to hire 15 temporary employees in the Wildland Division. This division is responsible for responding to Wildland fire-related calls or events in and out of the city limits. These crews can be deployed in or out of state to assist with wildland fires, and when they are deployed out of state, revenue is generated. Crew members also assist full-time Fire department employees with various calls throughout the summer, including trail rescues of lost or injured hikers.
- The Fire Department has an important role in responding to residents whose health crises include behavioral health needs, the City is making an investment of over $200 thousand in additional funding in the Fire Environmental Services for department-wide training, crisis intervention, de-escalation training, behavioral health and mental illness recognition and sensitivity training.
- The City is investing $778 thousand in additional funding in the General Fund to fill Fire Departments positions that were frozen in FY21 and hire 15-20 cadets to send to the Fire Academy in FY22.
- The FY22 Budget includes a collective bargaining reserve in the Fire Department's budget totaling $404,826, an amount equivalent to a 4% increase to salary, and all salary-dependent benefits, for members of the IAFF Local 2059, which will be allocated through the collective bargaining process.
- Funding for a 4% salary increase for non-union employees and a 3% salary increase for the Department Director.
- Increases in other operating costs including services of other departments.

ADMINISTRATION DIVISION

PAUL BABCOCK, FIRE CHIEF

The Administration Division is the core of the executive leadership and administrative operations supporting all members of the Department. The mission is to preserve life and property through public education and prompt, efficient emergency response. The City of Santa Fe Fire Department is dedicated to serving the best interest of the public by taking the steps necessary to reduce human suffering, as well as the preventable loss of life and property. Members commit to continued learning, personal growth, and professional development, and at all times work in a respectful, honest, and professional manner with each other, the public, and the members of all other agencies. Above all else, City of Santa Fe Fire Department members prize the dignity of human life and strive to treat all people with the compassion, professionalism, and understanding they deserve.

Description of Services

Work from this Division includes personnel, accounting, budget, procurement, contracts, and finance; data collection, management and reporting, records, ITT services; mobile computing, land mobile radio services, and logistics. Facilities, equipment, apparatus, uniforms, and personal protective equipment are also overseen by this Division.

SUPPORT SERVICES

BRIAN MOYA, ASSISTANT FIRE CHIEF

Mission and Description of Services

The Support Services Division consists of seven different components performing the following missions and services:

- The Fleet Division is responsible for the design, purchase, and maintenance of the Department's fleet which includes: 7 firefighting apparatuses, 11 ambulances, 16 specialized pieces of equipment, and 31 utility vehicles. In addition to servicing the fleet of apparatuses and vehicles, the Division is responsible for repair and maintenance to the Department's small engines, tools, pump testing unit, and air cascade and compressing stations. To ensure all of these services, Division staff maintain special skills that include Basic ASE certifications, CDL Driver's Licenses, EVTCC (Emergency Vehicle Technician Certification Commission) certification, and trained and certified fire pump mechanics.
- The Training Division relies upon and follows State statutes and guidelines as well as National standards and best practices to provide comprehensive training across all disciplines that the Department needs to perform. The focus is on high quality content distribution and skills performance rather than simply fulfilling education hours. In short, the following organizations and documents dictate or guide training hours offered: National Registry of EMTs, New Mexico EMS Bureau, New Mexico State Statute, National Fire Protection Association, New Mexico Firefighters Training Academy, Occupational Safety and Health Administration, SFFD/SFFA CBA, rules and Regulations and Standard Operating Guidelines, and the Insurance Services Office.
In addition to internal training, the Training Division plans for and conducts the SFFD Recruit Academy for new personnel and multiple nationally-offered trainings in collaboration with the State Fire Marshal's office and the National Fire Academy. Upon request, the Training Division helps other City Departments and schools with training and fire safety education.
- The Health and Safety Officer monitors and provides education and policies to the Department member health and well-being. This includes annual physicals for all personnel, proactive health screenings, monitoring of hazardous materials exposures, and developing policies that target a firefighter's increased risk of contracting cancer. The Safety Officer also helps evaluate and purchase all personnel protective clothing for the Department.
- The Fire Prevention Division works to reduce property loss and the number of fire-related incidents in the City of Santa Fe. This is done through a number of specific programs. Plan review is done cooperatively with the Land Use Department on all properties within certain parameters and for all developments. Inspections are done annually on business and certain high-risk use properties and business types, and according to local resolution. Code enforcement is done periodically, unannounced for certain occupancies, and as requested by complaint or for follow-up. All inspections, plan reviews, and enforcement are done to City Council-approved International Code Council standards by Fire Prevention staff, which consists of the Fire Marshal, Deputy Fire Marshal, and three Fire Inspectors. In addition, the Fire Prevention staff works to build public relations and public education with hundreds of scheduled events and visits to every school within the City.

- The Mobile Integrated Health Office (MIHO) proactively seeks out frequent users of the City's emergency 911 system and provides them with the help and resources to improve their health status and become less reliant on emergency services. This not only improves the person's individual health, but saves money and creates less of a burden on the emergency response system by decreasing non-emergency requests from that population. The CONNECT program is the flagship program for the Division's EMS operations into the 21st century. Participants in the CONNECT program are identified either internally through a high rate of 911 use or externally by health care partners for high use of health care resources. Participants are enrolled for a 90-day intervention which consists of home visits, identification of barriers to health and goals, and a participant/provider partnership aimed at connecting the participant to existing resources. Other programs are directed to deliver Naloxone to those identified as at risk for narcotic overdose, services to address falls in elderly populations, and response to relieve emergency response units when not needed. In 2019, the Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion (LEAD) program was added to our community assistance profile. LEAD will divert individuals to a community-based, harm-reduction intervention program for low-level, non-violent behavioral health cases.

OPERATIONS

PHILLIP MARTINEZ, ASSISTANT FIRE CHIEF

Mission

The Operations Division mission is to respond to all emergency calls with a high level of efficiency and preparedness in order to minimize the loss of life and property from the effects of fire, medical, or any other emergency, and to render assistance as required. Inherent in this mission is the desire to protect and enhance the quality of life of our citizens and community by responding quickly, performing with excellence and serving at every opportunity.

FISCAL YEAR 2022 - RECOMMENDED BUDGET

POLICE DEPARTMENT

ANDREW PADILLA, CHIEF OF POLICE

Mission

The mission of the Police Department is to provide City of Santa Fe residents and guests with a safe environment in which to live, work, and visit through professional service and quality policing. We will endeavor to foster open communication, mutual respect, absolute trust, integrity, and justice within our community by working together to prevent, reduce, and combat crime and illegal activity.

Description of Services

The Police Department has the responsibility of preserving the peace, responding to law enforcement service requests and protecting life and property within the City limits. Police officers are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week to respond to calls for service, prevention of crimes, investigate criminal activity, apprehend suspects, investigate traffic incidents, and provide animal services. Detectives conduct special investigations ranging from property crimes to homicides. These activities are supported by professional staff; crime analysis, non-sworn positions, budget, effective records and evidence management and storage.

FY22 Recommended Budget

Police Department's total FY22 Recommended Budget increased by $1.9 million, or 7.2%, from the FY21 budgeted levels. The Police Department's General Fund FY22 Recommended Budget increased by $1.6 million, or 6.8%, from the FY21 budgeted levels. The FY22 Recommended Budget includes the following:

- The City has renewed its commitment to invest $71 thousand for a Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Contract for a coordinator who reports to Police Department's Special Victims Unit to maintain DV, Sexual Assault, stalking, and human traffic data and statistics for monthly review, as well as acting as a liaison between SFPD personnel and victims of those crimes.
- The City will invest $1.4 million General Fund to restore 13 frozen positions including both sworn and non-sworn classifications, as well as replace 7-8 vehicles and restore funding for operations that was reduced in FY21.

FISCAL YEAR 2022 - RECOMMENDED BUDGET

- The City is investing $112 thousand for a Police Workload Assessment to evaluate the Police Department's call loads department-wide and provide an objective staffing recommendation. While there is no one-size-fits all approach to determine how a police department should be staffed, a quantitative approach will help the City determine if the existing organizational structure and number and types of positions is appropriate and if staffing is deployed most efficiently to achieve the public safety needs of the City. The Workload Assessment will help the City determine appropriate sworn/civilian personnel ratios and staffing ratios based on workload, and service priority.
- An additional $728 thousand funding in the Law Enforcement Fund will assist the Police Department in the purchase of equipment, replacing vehicles and restoring funding for operations that was reduced in FY21.
- The FY22 Budget includes a collective bargaining reserve in the Police Department's budget totaling $423,127, an amount equivalent to a 4% increase to salary, and all salary-dependent benefits, for members of the Santa Fe Police Officer's Association, which will be allocated through the collective bargaining process.
- Funding for a 4% salary increase for non-union employees and a 3% salary increase for the Department Director.
- Increases in other operating costs including services of other departments.

FISCAL YEAR 2022 - RECOMMENDED BUDGET

VI. FY22 REVENUE AND ECONOMIC ANALYSIS

In the last year, the national economy underwent an unprecedented economic shock due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The City of Santa Fe reported record unemployment levels the second quarter of 2020 as pandemic closures left much of the city's restaurant, retail, and tourism industry unable to operate. FY21 budget projections estimated a 21% drop in Gross Receipt Taxes and substantial declines in both Lodgers' Tax and fee revenues. Buoyed by the federal economic stimulus and low interest rates, construction and real estate led a substantial improvement in the local economy through the beginning of calendar year 2021. Gross Receipts Tax collections have outperformed expectations, allowing the revenue budget for FY21 to be revised upward from $90.6 million to $97.0 million. Lodgers' Tax is expected to underperform expectations, while Property Taxes will also come in below budget. Taken in aggregate, the FY22 total revenue estimate for the City of Santa Fe should exceed $294.7 million on the momentum of continued economic recovery.

In March 2020, following nationwide closings and historically high unemployment, Congress passed the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act, distributing $2.2 Trillion in economic stimulus to support both individuals and businesses. This was the largest single stimulus package in United States history, and in combination with actions taken by the Federal Reserve, allowed for a swifter economic recovery than was thought possible. The American Rescue Plan Act of 2021, the $1.9 Trillion dollar stimulus passed on March 11, 2021, promises to further revitalize the US economy throughout FY22. GDP is expected to grow at the fastest rate since 1983, and a strong recovery is expected in the travel, accommodation, and retail sectors.

Substantial uncertainty exists, and whenever possible, the City of Santa Fe has sought to be conservative with the FY22 revenue projections. New Mexico remains a leading state in vaccine distribution and re-openings are expected to continue in earnest through the beginning of FY22. Nationwide, historically high savings rates and greater disposable income correlates to robust discretionary spending in normal times. However, the threat of continued variants of the COVID-19 virus, potential closings, and the postponement of local events will likely make the fiscal recovery more gradual.

The following subsections provide a summary of both revenue history and projections to assist in budgetary planning. FY22 revenue projections utilized multiple economic models to provide a scientific estimate of future revenues: trend analysis, regression analysis, and multifactor econometric models. Although current revenues cautious optimism as the city approaches FY22, uncertainties surrounding the reopening of the economy remain.

National Economic Outlook

During FY20, the US economy endured an unprecedented economic shock. Unemployment and GDP losses during Spring 2020 were the worst experienced since the Great Depression. However, a combination of factors makes a strong economic recovery likely during calendar year 2021. Strong fiscal stimulus and low interest rates will power consumer spending, GDP growth, construction, and real estate through the end of calendar year 2021. Likewise, historically low bankruptcies and high capital investment should enable a robust multi-year recovery.

FISCAL YEAR 2022 - RECOMMENDED BUDGET

Gross Domestic Product (GDP) measures the value of the good and services an economy produces during a given time period, and represents the most complete gauge of overall economic strength. The decline in GDP in second quarter of 2020 represented a historic decline not seen since the great depression. The $2.2 trillion CARES Act stimulus package passed by Congress on March 27, 2020 helped accelerate the economic recovery, with GDP improving by an annualized rate of 33% in the subsequent quarter. Looking forward, the passage of an additional $1.9 Trillion Stimulus via the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021 represents roughly 9% of US GDP, and spending from this plan is likely to further accelerate economic growth in the coming year.

Looking ahead, consensus economic projections for 2021 have been revised upward due to the substantial federal stimulus. Estimated GDP growth in 2021 is expected to reach or exceed 6%, the highest level seen since 1983. Further, additions to real capital spending by businesses (investment in physical assets) and residential investment (including residential construction and redevelopment) are expected to exceed GDP growth in the coming year. Taken together, this strong investment outlook indicates that the national economy is building long-term economic capacity to ensure future economic growth.

With five trillion dollars in stimulus packages passed during the last year, the risk of an additional recession following a period of economic recovery ('double-dip' recession) has been greatly reduced. Inflation can occur when there is a rapid increase in the money supply that cannot be adequately absorbed by the economy, or when aggregate economic demand grows faster than aggregate supply (called 'demand-pull' inflation). Given the unprecedented stimulus, the risk for inflation in the United States seems tangibly higher than in previous years. Measured using the Consumer Price Index (CPI) utilizing a representative basket of goods, inflation is expected to peak around 3% during 2021 before falling back to roughly 2% in subsequent quarters. Moderate inflation reduces living standards if consumer prices rise faster than wages, but also makes fixed debt payments relatively more affordable. In response to inflation, the Federal Reserve can raise the discount rate, effectively reducing monetary supply and also inflation. However, Federal Reserve Chair Jerome Powell has signaled that the Federal Reserve does not intend to take action during the next year and would tolerate higher than 2% inflation during a transitory economic recovery period. The rapid increase in rates between 2004 and 2006 in response to inflationary concerns is unlikely to be repeated in the next year.

Higher yields in 10-yr and 30-yr bonds have steepened the US Yield Curve, indicating anticipated economic expansion. Every prior recession in the last fifty years have been preceded by an 'inverted' yield curve, where short-term rates are equal or exceed long-term rates for US Treasuries. The steepening yield curve points towards economic growth, and the bond market suggests that increases in the Federal Reserve interest rates will not occur until early 2023. Continued low interest rates will continue to power economic growth and provide an engine for all other economic activities: particularly real estate, construction, and project financing. The continued economic growth should enable a further decline in the unemployment rate to levels comparable to 2019 by 2023.

Data Source: Consumer Finance Board, Author's Own Calculations

National real estate growth, enhanced by the lowest 30-year mortgage rates in recorded financial history, exceeded 10% YoY through December 2020. Mortgages under forbearance remained elevated (averaging 5% of mortgages in March 2021) substantially above pre-pandemic levels, although this can also be attributed to incentives around the CARES Act. Student loans balances grew 12% (Experian) to historically high levels during 2020, while origination levels softened. While the recession of 2020 brought with it higher forbearance and student loan delinquencies, consumer bankruptcies were historically low during the fourth quarter of 2020. This indicates that a combination of factors are both limiting and delaying bankruptcies, encouraging a stronger economic recovery as we approach the second half of 2021.

As of March 2021, restaurant and travel expenditures have been improving. Recent data from the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) indicates that passenger traffic has improved from a seven-day average equal to 35% of 2019 values to over 50% in March. This trajectory is expected to continue, as savings rates remain historically high and demand for travel improves with greater mobility following economic reopening. Travel recovery should achieve 80% of 2019 levels during Summer 2021, and potentially recover most of the remaining difference by the end of the year.

Elevated unemployment remains particularly high. US unemployment (U-3) stood at 6.2% in February 2021, significantly improved from the 14.8% unemployment rate recorded in April 2020 but remaining above the pre-pandemic level of 3.5%. The civilian labor force remains roughly four million workers smaller (out of 160 million), indicating substantial numbers of workers remain underutilized and outside of the labor force when compared to the period before the pandemic. This can be attributed to a combination of factors: permanent layoffs, early retirements, and often parents leaving the workforce to provide child or eldercare. Strong economic growth and reopening will provide incentives for many of these workers to return to the labor force. Structural unemployment remains a problem, and the size of the long-term unemployed (greater than 27 weeks) remain at over four million, and over six million workers remain part time for economic reasons.

State and Local Economy

In New Mexico, the recent economic conditions have likewise produced historically high unemployment and significant displacement across industries. New Mexico's high levels of government employment (relative to other states) and lack of publicly traded large companies insulates the state from employment extremes common in other places. New Mexico's unemployment levels peaked at 12.5% during July 2020, and have since fallen to 8.7% (preliminary) as of January 2021, substantially higher than the national average. Job losses in New Mexico also undergo a longer period of recovery than the overall economy. As of the most recent report, unemployment in New Mexico is 32% lower than the prior year in the mining and logging sector (including Oil and Gas Extraction); 30% lower in leisure and hospitality sector; and 11% lower than the prior year in both financial activities and manufacturing. Unemployment in New Mexico grew from roughly 45,000 in mid-2019 to over 83,000 today.

In comparison with the rest of New Mexico, Santa Fe maintains proportionately greater employment in the government and travel and leisure sectors, with fewer employed in professional services or manufacturing. Employment peaked in late 2019 in Santa Fe County, with fewer than 2,700 unemployed residents out of a labor force of 76,000. Preliminary data from January 2021 indicates that unemployment has risen to over 6,000 residents out of a reduced labor force of 70,668. Much of the growth can be explained by the year-on-year loss of jobs in the government (1,600 jobs) and travel and leisure (4,700 jobs) sectors.

Hotel occupancy in Santa Fe was particularly vulnerable to the wave of pandemic-related shutdowns, with occupancy losses peaking in April 2020 at 76% below the prior year. Since then, occupancy has moderately recovered, with February 2021 occupancy at 31.3%, only 42% below the 54.7% value the prior year. Using STR data, mid-range projected hotel occupancy in 2021 is expected to strongly exceed 2020 levels while remaining somewhat below 2019 occupancy. The headwinds of continued economic growth and looser travel restrictions will enable a moderate to strong recovery, but uncertainty remains regarding the potential for additional disruption with viral variants.

The restaurant industry is likewise poised for significant recovery. Data from OpenTable suggests that after reaching a nadir in 2020, seated dining has roughly recovered to half its prior levels in 2021. New Mexico somewhat lags the United States as a whole, given relatively stricter pandemic restrictions that remain in force across much of the state. The trajectory is expected to continue, with restaurants returning to near-full capacity by August 2021.

On the more significant positive side, both real estate and construction have remained particularly robust throughout the pandemic. Several different indices for home prices around Santa Fe recorded between 15 and 25% increases in real estate values, which exceed both state and national averages. Steep rises in prices were also driven by historically low housing inventory in Santa Fe, as demand for homes greatly exceeded the existing supply. Listing prices in February 2021 remained roughly 31% above prior year values, and the number of listings experiencing with a reduced price was at its lowest point in all five years of recorded values. Higher prices, while making the city more expensive, represent a positive indicator of demand for Santa Fe real estate. Higher equity values on existing homes supports expenditures on house improvements and real estate quality.

Construction has proved robust to the economic downturn, with overall construction employment remaining unchanged in Santa Fe during the pandemic. New building permits for residential houses has continued a three-year boom, exceeding mean values in most one-month periods prior to the pandemic. Higher construction levels expand both the population of the city as well as its tax revenues, both in terms of property taxes and gross receipts taxes (GRT).

Data Source: Federal Reserve Economic Data

Overall, the city of Santa Fe is poised for a continued economic recovery in the final months of FY 2021 leading into FY 2022. Higher consumer spending will be driven by the additional stimulus and pent-up demand, which will particularly help restaurants, hotels, and retail stores. Low interest rates and low housing inventory will continue to boost real estate prices, while construction is expected to remain particularly robust in response to continued high demand. Recessionary conditions remain unlikely, as a steep yield curve and low financing costs are expected to continue to improve city employment conditions. Moderate inflation remains a tangible risk, as higher prices usually increases both costs and revenues for municipalities. The worst-case scenario remains a renewed period of restricted economic activity in response to a virulent strain of the COVID-19 virus, which would put further downward pressure on the restaurant and hotel industries that serve the city's tourism sector.

Labor and Workforce

With 84,683 people (US Census Bureau Estimate, 2019), Santa Fe represents roughly 4% of the 2.1 Million residents of New Mexico. Demographically, the population of Santa Fe is older (22.6% of the population is over 65), wealthier (per capita income is roughly 36% above the state average), and maintains a lower poverty rate than the state as a whole. Over 12% of all New Mexico consumer spending on accommodation and food services during the year occurs in the City of Santa Fe. Retail sales per capita is over 2.5 times the state average, and 42% of the population possesses a college degree, far above the state levels. Despite these differences, the City of Santa Fe maintains a workforce nearly as diverse as the state of New Mexico itself: the population is 55.2% Hispanic or Latino, 1.2% Black or African American, 1.8% Native American, and 3% multiracial. Over 14% of the city is foreign born.

FISCAL YEAR 2022 - RECOMMENDED BUDGET

Historically, the strength of government and tourism industries has helped keep employment in the city below state and national averages. Employment tends to be seasonal, with greater unemployment in summer. The city has over 12,000 firms, and 78% of the city's labor force is employed in nonfarm payrolls representing roughly 55,000 workers. Of nonfarm employment, 25% of the city is employed in government, 17.9% in education and health services, and 17.5% in trade, transportation, and utilities.

Non-Farm Sector	Labor Force (000s)	% of Total

Unemployment in Santa Fe climbed to a preliminary seasonally-adjusted figure of 8.3% (8.6% unadjusted), and while the city typically maintains lower unemployment than the state of New Mexico as a whole, the disproportionate size of the city's accommodation, restaurant, and retail sectors makes the city particularly vulnerable to pandemic closures. Normal unemployment for the last ten years hovers between 5% and 6%. Exceptionally low unemployment, mirroring the trend nationally, occurred in 2018 and 2019 with unemployment levels falling below 4% of the labor force. Projecting the unemployment rate forward using an Autoregressive Integrated Moving Average, also known as an ARIMA model, generates a trend approaching the long term unemployment average. In turn, the model has also been adjusted for seasonality to depict year-on-year variation in employment in the hospitality and tourism sectors.

Unemployment Dynamics for Santa Fe, 2011-2027 Modified ARIMA model

FISCAL YEAR 2022 - RECOMMENDED BUDGET

Rapid recovery in unemployment levels has occurred nationally, with a somewhat lagged value for both Santa Fe and New Mexico as a whole. Given the economic headwinds, substantial improvement in unemployment is likely as we finish FY 2021 and enter FY 2022. Adverse economic conditions caused by a viral-variant is possible, which would keep unemployment levels elevated above the long-term average.

Compared with 2020, Santa Fe maintains nearly 8,000 fewer jobs in non-farm sector. The greatest year-on-year declines were in leisure and hospitality (-4,700 jobs), government (-1,600 jobs), and education and health service (-400 jobs). Rapid economic growth and continued progress in reopening should improve these numbers by the end of Summer 2021.

Many firms in Santa Fe were able to maintain payrolls through the paycheck protection program (PPP). In total, over $217 million was disbursed to Santa Fe businesses in the first stimulus, with $2.3 billion extended to the state as a whole. These loans, which can be forgiven, supported over 24,000 jobs in the city and prevented more egregious economic consequences. Despite this, many employers were forced to layoff or furlough employees during the last year. Three of the Five largest Santa Fe Metropolitan Area employers are government-based. Healthcare and Tribal employment are also substantial drivers of local employment.

Recurring Revenues

Recurring revenue received by the City is categorized as cyclical revenue, typically received monthly, quarterly or annually from funding sources and is reasonably expected to be available on a recurring basis. This revenue under normal circumstances is predictable and historically stable. Most recurring revenue is received from the collection of taxes and fees & services at 39.7 percent and 38.2 percent, respectively. The remainder of the revenues come from grants, rents, royalties and concessions, licenses & permits, interest income from investments and miscellaneous revenues. Containment efforts for the virus have translated in declines in City's recurring revenues primarily in the form of lower sales tax and lodgers tax collections and fees collected for services such as parking and recreation activities.

Tax Revenue and Projection Estimation

Santa Fe tax revenue is primarily generated from gross receipts tax (GRT), lodgers' tax, property tax, gasoline tax, and franchise fees. To project these values in FY22 and beyond, a rigorous economic analysis was applied. First, historical data was evaluated against a series of broader economic variables, including GDP, wage growth, industrial production, housing starts, unemployment, and inflation. Unemployment was a statistically significant driver of GRT and Lodgers' Tax; property tax was statistically correlated to both GRT and population size. Local economic data can be challenging to predict, particularly in an unprecedented pandemic and economic crisis. However, national economic drivers are less volatile, and predicting these values can provide insight to the future revenue drivers of the city of Santa Fe.

Once this was established, recurring revenue streams were subjected to three different projection models. First, an economic trend analysis was established to evaluate future rates based on past growth. Trend models are efficient and easy to construct, but unusual or seasonal values can distort the projections. To correct for this, the model omitted extreme values from consideration in the analysis. Secondly, a regression model was employed that was derived from historical data. Regressions, unlike trend analysis, factor in all relevant data points to make projections and utilize a consistent methodology. However, regressions are most effective when the data and assumptions of past periods apply to future periods. Lastly, the model employed a multifactor econometric model that was derived from projections of the economic state in 2020. These models can be incredibly effective, but the variables utilized have to be continually monitored to ensure an accurate prediction. To provide a more seasoned analysis, the final projection averaged all three of these models to produce an estimate of value.

For non-recurring revenues, including over 800 revenue source line-items in the budget, a combination of trend and regression modeling was used depending on the quality of the historical data. Smaller, non-recurring revenue sources are more volatile, adding to the difficulty of modeling these. Utilizing data from FY18 through FY20 allowed to estimate FY22 with greater precision.

Finally, the models assume a gradual but incomplete reopening for the end of FY21 and the first half of FY22. Whenever possible, the analysis errs on a conservative projection of forecasted revenues, although significant uncertainty remains.

FISCAL YEAR 2022 - RECOMMENDED BUDGET

Gross Receipts Tax

Gross Receipts Tax (GRT) represents the largest single source of non-fee revenue for the City of Santa Fe, approximately 32.2% of recurring revenues. The combined 2021 gross receipt tax rate for Santa Fe is 8.44%, with 5.13% going to the state of New Mexico and the remaining 3.31% collected and distributed by the New Mexico Taxation and Revenue Department (NM TRD) back to the city. Beginning in March 2020, the pandemic drastically reduced GRT revenues. April and May 2020 reported GRT nearly 20% lower than the prior year.

In response to the significant uncertainty and decrease in economic activity due to the pandemic, the City of Santa Fe Finance Department budgeted FY21 collections lower than the prior years. The original FY21 budget estimated GRT revenue of $90.6 million based on significant uncertainty regarding the duration of the economic downturn. The federal economic stimulus, progress with vaccine towards reopening boosted FY21 revenues significantly. The subsequent GRT budget has been revised upwards to $97.0 million, while higher values seem increasingly likely.

Source: City of Santa Fe Finance Department

GRT collections in FY22 are estimated to be $108.9 million, an increase of $11.9 million, or 12.3%, above the revised FY21 revenue estimates of $97 million. This represents an approximation with significant uncertainty, as the strong economic growth projected in the next year balances a gradual reopening process for businesses across New Mexico. Two reasons for cautious optimism exist: as of late March 2021, New Mexico remains the US state making the greatest progress in administering the vaccine, with 35% of residents having been given one dose, and 21% of residents now fully vaccinated. Secondly, the $1.9 Trillion stimulus provided by the American Rescue Plan Act of 2021 provided an estimated $100 million in direct stimulus payments to Santa Fe residents. Assuming an elevated pandemic-level savings rate and historical levels of consumer spending, this may result in an additional GRT revenue for the city. FY22 will be the first year that sales tax collected on goods acquired from internet sellers will be directly passed on to municipalities and is included in our GRT estimates.

Property Tax

Property Taxes are levied on real and personal property annually by the County of Santa Fe Assessor to establish a value for Property Tax to be levied upon. The county of Santa Fe Assessor collects and distributes Santa Fe's allocation back to the city on a monthly basis. In past years, property tax revenues have ranged from $10.8 million in FY18, $11.4 million in FY19, and $10.8 million in FY20. The FY21 budget was set at $12.0 million. From July 2020 through January 2021 property tax collections totaled $6.1 million. The pandemic and election generated unusual property collection values on a month-by-month basis, complicating the projection scenario for FY22. Using revised data incorporating the actual collected values, property tax is anticipated to be $10.9 million in FY22, close to the average collections received during the previous five years. Increasing property values and growth of residents should expand the property tax collections over the next three to five years, resuming the period of steady growth that began following the 2008-2009 economic recession.

Franchise Fees

Franchise fees are collected for services provided within the City. Typically, franchise fees are collected from electric services, natural gas, water, cable, telecom and telephone service providers and based on consumer use. Franchise fees collected have increased from $4.4 million in FY18 to $4.8 million in FY19 and $5.1 million in FY20 after an incremental increase in PNM's Franchise Fee rates. The FY21 budget accounted for $4.6 million in Franchise Fees following the anticipated decline in revenue due to reduced economic activity. Looking forward to FY22, the mid-tier projection estimates $5.1 million in franchise fee revenue.

FISCAL YEAR 2022 - RECOMMENDED BUDGET

Lodger's Tax

The City of Santa Fe charges a lodgers' tax of 7% on the price of hotel, motel, and short-term rentals. Prior to the pandemic, lodgers' tax collections grew faster than any other recurring revenue source in Santa Fe at an 8% annual rate between FY15 and FY19. Lodgers' tax collections remain strongly seasonal, with the greatest collections occurring between June and November of each calendar year. After peaking at $12.5 million in revenues in FY19, collections proved uniquely vulnerable to the COVID-19 pandemic: year-on-year revenue declined 81% between May 2019 and May 2020. 98,479 passengers utilized the Santa Fe Regional Airport in 2020, roughly on third the 283,238 passengers who utilized the airport in 2019 and mirroring the national trend. The traveler count is expected to increase steadily during 2021, but many events that typically attract visitors to Santa Fe remain cancelled through Summer 2021. This will limit the short-term recovery of lodgers' tax revenue even as tourists remain drawn to the other attractions of the city.

The FY21 budget incorporated the drastic declines in Lodgers' Tax expected during the pandemic and anticipated total revenues of $6.4 million. With only 36% of the budget collected in the six months ending December 2021, it seems increasingly unlikely that Lodgers' Tax will meet this value. FY22 projections for lodgers' tax revenue incorporated a series of growth scenarios in the econometric analysis. Strong economic recovery is likely to be tempered by the lack of in-person events, continued (but loosening) economic restrictions, and some hesitancy in consumer behavior to return to traveling. The mid-range FY22 estimate predicts $8.7 million in lodgers' tax revenues.

Gasoline Tax

The gasoline tax levies a tax on volume of fuel consumed in Santa Fe. Gasoline is considered a relatively inelastic economic good, since changes in price do not substantially affect demand. However, technological improvement in the fuel efficiency of vehicles, electric cars, and public transportation all serve to reduce aggregate gasoline consumption. Further, Santa Fe's gasoline demand also depends highly on tourism and other external economic factors. Over the prior 12 years, gasoline tax collections have varied from $1.3 to $1.5 million. Reduced travel and higher unemployment lowered expectations for gasoline tax collections to only $1.1 million in FY21, while FY22 should expect a modest recovery of $1.2 million.

Source: City of Santa Fe Finance Department

Looking ahead, demand for gasoline is expected to gradually fall as consumers adopt electric vehicles. Between 2019 and 2026, energy analysts expected a ninefold increase in the number of electric vehicles on the roads worldwide.

Licenses and Permits

Licenses and permits are comprised of revenue from business licenses, building and zoning permits and other licenses and permits. FY18 revenue received for licenses and permits was $4.2 million, FY19 totaled $3.9 million and FY20 totaled $4.5 million; FY21 budget was $3.3 million and the FY22 budget is $3.7 million, an increase of 10 percent to reflect decreases in building permits and short term rental permits during the economic downturn. The improvement in the economic situation in FY22 is expected to help lift license and permit revenue to $3.7 million.

Fees and Services

Fees and Services seek to recover the full cost of services provided by the City directly to residents. The City provides a wide array of services, which include: airport fees, ambulance fees, civic center fees, housing fees, impact fees, insurance premiums, meals fees, parking fees, land use fees, police and court fees, public transportation fees, recreation fees, water, wastewater and solid waste fees, and other miscellaneous fees. Fees and services collected in FY19 totaled $120.3 million and in FY20 totaled $129.5 million, in large part from water, wastewater and solid waste fees, reimbursed expenses and parking fees. The FY21 Fees and Service budget is $117.4 with $129.3 million budgeted for FY22.

The Public Utilities Department will see continued uncertainty around business closures and development offset by robust residential usage. Parking Fees collected in FY19 totaled $5.6 million and in FY20 totaled $3.7 million, with $3.7 million budgeted in FY21. Parking Fees are expected to grow to $4.1 million in FY22, while airport fees will generate subpar but recovering revenues of $685 thousand.

Fines and Forfeitures

Fines and Forfeitures is made up of parking fines, traffic and water violations, court and library fines. Collections amounted to $1.3 million in FY19, $0.9 million in FY20, and was budgeted for $0.8 million in FY21. Due to the continued economic recovery, expected fines and forfeitures will reach $0.9 million in FY22.

Rents, Royalties, Concessions

Revenue generated from airport rental fees, equipment rentals, parks and recreation department rentals and other rentals, including land and facilities rentals, are categorized under rents, royalties and concessions. In FY19, Santa Fe earned $2.2 million from rents, royalties, and concessions and $2.1 million in FY20 which was reduced to $1.4 million in the FY21 budget due to lower demand from the pandemic. Modest recovery is expected in FY22 and revenues should exceed $1.7 million.

Miscellaneous Revenue

Revenues included in this category are grants and miscellaneous revenues from bond issuance premiums and proceeds, insurance recoveries and other various small revenues.

Transfer In

Transfer In is the movement of money between funds as a means of distributing revenue to the Fund where it is being expended.

Nonrecurring Revenue

Nonrecurring revenue received by the City is categorized as one-time revenue. Examples include the sale of land for capital expenditures or revenue not earmarked for recurring personnel, operational or maintenance costs.

Reserves

The FY22 budget maintains sufficient reserves to comply with the financial policy threshold of maintaining a 10% General Fund Reserve. Because of City's fiscal responsibility over the last few years, the City is positioned to prioritize funding the health and wellbeing of our community at a time of global economic uncertainty. In normal years, the City is diligent to ensure that estimated ongoing revenue levels match ongoing expenditure levels. Due to the magnitude and suddenness of the economic downturn and the uncertainty of revenue projections, the FY22 Recommended Budget uses a mix of ongoing and one-time revenue to balance the budget. Given the nature of the global public health crisis and the economic downturn, it is more important now than ever to utilize the rainy day fund to maintain vital city services for residents. As part of the FY22 Recommended Budget, the City is proposing to use $10.2 million of cash reserves to augment the service levels as the economy recovers.

Total funding sources in the FY22 Recommended Budget across All Funds is $348.6 million which includes cash reserves. This represents a $28.7 million or 9.0 percent increase from the FY21 budgeted levels. Reserves are intentionally built up during years of revenue growth with the prospect of using the reserves to help during times of financial hardship. See below for detailed tables.

Grants

Grants secured by the City may be one-time funding or they may be recurring. The terms, timing, and nature of each grant varies widely across recipient departments. In FY19, the City received $6.4 million in grant funding. FY20 the City received $9.5 million and in FY21, the City expects $13.6 million, not including the $17.6 million in Cares Act grants received in the Fall 2021. FY22 the City is budgeting $15.4 million in grants, not including the American Rescue Plan Act funding which will be allocated at a future date.
