REPLY COMMENTS OF 28 STATE ATTORNEYS GENERAL

I. INTRODUCTION

The undersigned State Attorneys General (“State AGs”) submit these Reply Comments in response to the Public Notice issued by the Consumer and Governmental Affairs Bureau,¹ seeking comment on the Federal Communication Commission’s (“Commission”) proposals to, inter alia, “ban the practice of obtaining a single consumer consent as grounds for delivering calls and text messages from multiple marketers on subjects beyond the scope of the original consent.”² Consistent with our respective and collective offices’ efforts in combatting illegal robocalls and text messages, and in response to those commenters advocating for measures that will provide lesser protection for consumers, the State AGs support the Commission’s intended goal of eliminating the current practices of the lead generation industry, unscrupulous voice service providers, and illegal robocallers that abuse the Commission’s rules governing prior express written consent. In addition, the State AGs offer comments concerning the Commission's proposals with respect to text messaging.

II. PRIOR EXPRESS WRITTEN CONSENT

A. The Lead Generation Problem

Telemarketers, voice service providers, and scammers need people to call (or text). Thus, lead generation has proliferated into a billion-dollar industry³ and has become a necessary component of the robocall ecosystem. Most obviously, there is the person or entity interested in placing calls to potentially solicit customers for any number of products or services or to swindle consumers into parting with their hard-earned money or personal information. Whether for telemarketing or for scams, the entity that wants to place the calls needs to select the phone numbers to call, needs technology to dial the calls en masse, and needs a voice service provider to connect the calls to the recipients. Each of these necessary functions is routinely outsourced to providers all over the globe, who facilitate and profit from facilitating robocalls.

A few months into the global COVID-19 pandemic, Assurance IQ, LLC (“Assurance”), an insurance company, filed a petition with the Commission seeking an expedited ruling regarding what constitutes prior express consent under the Telephone Consumer Protection Act (“TCPA”).⁴ In its Petition, Assurance requested the Commission confirm that “where it is determined that a calling party has sufficient information to establish a reasonable basis to believe that they have valid consent to make the call, the caller may rely on that consent for TCPA purposes until such time as the called party claims to the caller that he or she did not provide the consent.”⁵ In its Petition, Assurance outlined its process for obtaining prior express consent from consumers, as follows:

³ Lead generation involves collecting personal information, including telephone numbers, from consumers and then selling that information to third parties who want to use the leads to generate business. See also <https://www.statista.com/statistics/190328/us-online-lead-generation-spending-forecast-2010-to-2015/> (Accessed April 18, 2023).

Consumers seeking quotes through one of [Assurance’s] web sites...are first required to answer questions to provide information relevant to the formulation of a needs assessment. This information includes the customer’s name, telephone number...address, and [originating IP-address]...At the final step, in order to receive an online quote, the consumer sees, immediately above the submit or “get my quote” button, the statement, “By Clicking View My Quote, I agree to the below consents.” Adjacent to that button, the consumer sees the following:

By clicking 'View My Quote', I expressly consent by electronic signature to receive marketing communication, including via calls using an automatic telephone dialing system and artificial or pre-recorded messages, emails, and text messages (SMS), from insurance companies or their agents, the owner of this website and its agents, representatives and affiliates, and partner companies to the phone number provided (including any wireless numbers). I understand that my consent to receive communications in this manner is not required as a condition of purchasing any goods or services, my telephone company may impose charges for these contacts, and I can revoke my consent at any time. If you are Medicare-eligible a representative may call you about a Medicare Advantage plan, Medicare Prescription Drug plan, Medicare Supplement plan or other Medicare plans. Not affiliated with the United States Government or the federal Medicare program.

By clicking 'View My Quote', I further agree to receive SMS notifications from Assurance short code 71953. Message and data rates may apply. Message frequency varies. You may receive alerts until you choose to opt out of this service by texting "Stop" to 71953 or replying "Stop" to any of our messages. Text "Help" to 71953 for assistance. Terms and Conditions and Privacy Policy and Do Not Sell My Personal Information

Typically, a consumer is not required to click on the “partner companies” hyperlink, nor the hyperlinks for the “Terms and Conditions” or “Privacy Policy,” in order to click on the “View My Quote” button. If a discerning consumer clicks on the link for “partner companies,” Assurance redirects the consumer to a separate webpage,⁷ wherein Assurance lists over 2,100 company names.⁸ By simply requesting an insurance quote from Assurance via a web inquiry, Assurance has opened the floodgates for an unwitting consumer to receive thousands upon thousands of robocalls, emails, or text messages from not only Assurance and “its agents, representatives and affiliates” (whoever they are), but “other insurance companies or their agents” (whoever they are), as well as the 2,100+ companies.

In reviewing the list of Assurance “partner companies,” it is readily apparent that not all of these companies sell insurance products. Without performing an exhaustive internet search of all 2,100+ names, it appears that the list of partner companies includes businesses that sell automobile warranties or service contracts, solar panels, digital advertising, and debt relief services, to name a few. Interestingly enough, the list also appears to include lead generation and marketing companies, as well as companies with wholly generic names, such as ‘American,’ ‘Builders,’ ‘Electric,’ ‘Erie,’ ‘Fabric,’ ‘Facility,’ ‘Federal,’ ‘Inc.,’ and ‘LLC,’ to name a few. One can only speculate as to why such a list would contain such generic names.⁹

Assurance's business practice is not an anomaly. Telemarketers (and some voice service providers¹⁰) typically rely on the purported consent provided through data brokers, bots, or weblinks on websites. Various parties create marketing websites with consent forms and then sell the data (i.e., names and phone numbers) to intermediary 'aggregators,' who compile the lead data from multiple website publishers and then sell the data to other aggregators, and so on, until the telemarketers purchase the leads for solicitation purposes.¹¹ Multiple filers submitted comments into the record in response to Assurance's Petition, providing examples and greater explanation of these practices.¹²

Urth Access provided the Traceback group with purported consent logs that included website addresses through which the illegal robocallers captured the called party's consent. However, the Commission recognized that none of the websites had any connection to student loan assistance, but rather, concerned health insurance products/services. The Commission also recognized that the consent logs failed to provide adequate disclosure that would constitute valid consent, as required by the Commission's rules. The websites included TCPA consent disclosures whereby the consumer agreed to receive robocalls from "marketing partners." These marketing partners were only visible to the consumer if the consumer clicked on a specific hyperlink to a second website that contained the names of 5,329 entities.)

B. The Commission’s Proposed Solution and Requests for Comment

In the March 2023 FNPRM, the Commission proposes to amend 47 C.F.R. Section 64.1200(f)(9) by adding the below-emphasized language to the current rule:

The term prior express written consent means an agreement, in writing, bearing the signature of the person called that clearly authorizes the seller to deliver or cause to be delivered to the person called advertisements or telemarketing messages using an automatic telephone dialing system or an artificial or prerecorded voice, and the telephone number to which the signatory authorizes such advertisements or telemarketing messages to be delivered.

Prior express written consent for a call or text may be to a single entity, or to multiple entities logically and topically associated. If the prior express written consent is to multiple entities, the entire list of entities to which the consumer is giving consent must be clearly and conspicuously displayed to the consumer at the time consent is requested. To be clearly and conspicuously displayed, the list must, at a minimum, be displayed on the same web page where the consumer gives consent.¹³

In addition to comments on the proposed language set forth above, and whether or not it will “clarify consent” or “help to eliminate illegal text messages and calls,” the Commission seeks comment on alternatives to the proposed language that would better protect consumers from the harms of illegal robocalls or text messages.¹⁴ The Commission also seeks comment on the principle that prior express consent to receive robocalls or text messages must be made directly to one entity at a time.¹⁵

The Commission additionally asks a series of questions regarding how its proposed new language would affect consumer use of comparison-shopping websites. First, it requests comments on how it can ensure consumers “can consent to obtain further information from the site without receiving numerous calls and texts from unrelated companies.” Second, it requests that commenters discuss whether the new language would limit the value of comparison-shopping sites to consumers. Third, the Commission asks whether alternatives to the proposal exist that would better protect consumers from unwanted robocalls and texts that may result from use of comparison-shopping websites.¹⁶

The undersigned State AGs support the Commission’s consistent and long history of requiring that prior express written consent for telemarketing be directly between a specific consumer and one specific seller. Based upon our understanding of the TCPA, the Code of Federal Regulations (“Code”), and the Commission’s previous orders, there is no “lead generator loophole.” Rather, those who profit from the robocall ecosystem are ignoring established law.

As such, the State AGs respectfully suggest that in lieu of amending the current language of Section 64.1200(f)(9) as proposed, the Commission instead clarify that the existing requirements for prior express written consent to receive robocalls and texts are in line with the principle that such consent must be made directly to one entity at a time. By doing so, the Commission will better protect consumers and avoid likely disputes over interpretation of the term “logically and topically associated.”

The State AGs also believe that contrary to the opening comments offered by members of the telemarketing industry, the Commission’s proposed new language permitting consumer consent to apply to more than one seller at a time is not necessary for consumers to continue to enjoy the benefits of comparison-shopping websites. Rather, as addressed in Section C (iii) below, within the structure of the current rule, these websites can make slight shifts to how information is displayed in a way that continues to provide consumers the benefit of comparison, without subjecting them to unwanted robocalls and texts.

C. Discussion

(i) The Current Rules Require Consent to One Seller at a Time

In 1991, Congress passed the TCPA to address consumer outrage “over the proliferation of intrusive, nuisance calls to their homes from telemarketers.”¹⁷ The TCPA provides that it is unlawful to make certain calls and texts¹⁸ using an automatic telephone dialing system¹⁹ or an artificial or prerecorded voice.²⁰ In addition, the TCPA vests the Commission with authority to promulgate rules to implement this prohibition.²¹ Pursuant to this authority, the Commission determined that autodialed, prerecorded, or artificially voiced calls that introduce an advertisement or constitute telemarketing are illegal unless the called party has given “prior express written consent” to be called.²²

The Code provides that the called party must provide permission to the seller. The Code defines “Seller” as “the person or entity on whose behalf a telephone call or message is initiated for the purpose of encouraging the purchase or rental of, or investment in, property, goods, or ¹⁷ Public Law 102-243, 105 Stat 2394 (Dec. 20, 1991) at Section 2 (6).

¹⁸ In 2003, the Commission clarified that “calls” include text messages to wireless numbers. 2003 TCPA Order, 18 FCC Record at 14115, para. 165.

¹⁹ In Facebook v. Duguid, 141 S.Ct. 1163, 1171 (2021), the Supreme Court clarified that “a necessary feature of an autodialer under § 227(a)(1)(A) is the capacity to use a random or sequential number generator to either store or produce phone numbers to be called.”

services, which is transmitted to any person.”²³ Furthermore, the Code defines “prior express written consent,” in relevant part, as “an agreement, in writing, bearing the signature of the person called that clearly authorizes the seller to deliver or cause to be delivered to the person called advertisements or telemarketing messages using...an artificial or prerecorded voice... .”²⁴ Hence, for advertising and telemarketing robocalls, the Code establishes that there must be express written consent by the called party to the seller.

Next, the Code delineates the requirements for the written agreement as follows:

- (i) The written agreement shall include a clear and conspicuous disclosure informing the person signing that:
 - (A) By executing the agreement, such person authorizes the seller to deliver or cause to be delivered to the signatory telemarketing calls using an automatic telephone dialing system or an artificial or prerecorded voice ...²⁵

Courts interpret “clear and conspicuous” to mean a notice that would be apparent to the reasonable consumer, separate from advertising copy or other disclosures.²⁶

The plain language of the existing rules makes clear that the Commission already intended for consent under the TCPA to be directly between a specific consumer and a specific seller. The Commission’s orders adopting these rules confirm this interpretation. For example, in 1995, in one of the first Commission orders implementing the TCPA, the Commission observed that although the statute does not define “express permission” or “invitation” from a consumer to permit telemarketing calls, Congress did not intend to allow telephone solicitation calls unless the called party (a) clearly stated that the telemarketer may call, and (b) clearly expressed an understanding that the telemarketer’s subsequent calls will be made for the purpose of encouraging the purchase of goods or services.²⁷

Also, in its 2012 TCPA Order,²⁸ the Commission declared it would “maximize consistency with the Federal Trade Commission’s (“FTC”) analogous Telemarketing Sales Rule (“TSR”)”²⁹ by adopting its current rules on consent:

Consistent with the FTC’s TSR, [the Commission concludes] that a consumer’s written consent to receive telemarketing robocalls must be signed and sufficient to show that the consumer: (1) received ‘clear and conspicuous disclosure’ of the consequences of providing the requested consent, i.e., that the consumer will receive future calls that deliver prerecorded messages by or on behalf of a specific seller; and (2) having received this information, agrees unambiguously to receive such calls at a telephone number the consumer designates.³⁰

The TSR also requires the seller to obtain prior express consent from the called party.³¹ When the FTC amended the TSR in 2008 to prohibit telemarketing calls delivering prerecorded messages without a consumer's express written agreement to receive such calls, the FTC responded to consumer comments expressing concern for their contact information being shared with affiliates or other companies. The FTC unequivocally stated that a "consumer's agreement with a seller to receive calls delivering prerecorded messages is non-transferrable. Any party other than that particular seller must negotiate its own agreement with the consumer to accept calls delivering prerecorded messages. Prerecorded calls placed to a consumer on the [National DNC Registry] by some third party that does not have its own agreement with the consumer would violate the TSR."³² Like the amended TSR, the TCPA and the Code allow sellers and telemarketers to call any person whose number has been entered on the National DNC Registry if that person has given his or her "prior express invitation or permission" to call, in writing and signed.³³ Consequently, the so-called "loophole" is just a figment of the lead generation industry's collective imagination. The State AGs respectfully submit that consent under the TCPA is between one specific consumer and one specific seller.

³³ 47 CFR 1200(c)(2)(ii) (emphasis added); see also, Report to Congress Pursuant to the Do No Call Implementation Act on Regulatory Coordination in Federal Telemarketing Laws Submitted by The Federal Trade Commission at 19 ("Like the amended TSR, the revised TCPA Regulations allow sellers and telemarketers to call any person whose number has been entered on the National Do Not Call Registry if that person has given his or her 'prior express invitation or permission' to call, in writing and signed.").

In 2015, the Commission further put the consumer in command by clarifying that “a called party may revoke consent at any time and through any reasonable means. A caller may not limit the manner in which revocation may occur.”³⁴ To allow third parties to gather consent would effectively limit the manner in which consumers who seek to revoke consent can do so. Consumers would be forced to first receive robocalls from a seller and then revoke consent individually to each seller. Third-party lead generators that gather consent for multiple sellers do not generally maintain a relationship with the sellers past the sale of consumer consent data, and thus, they cannot reliably transmit a revocation of consent from a consumer.

As a result, if a consumer initially consents to receive robocalls through a third-party lead generator, or if fabricated consent is fraudulently provided to a third-party lead generator, then the consumer cannot subsequently revoke consent through the lead generator and is likely to receive an ongoing barrage of robocalls from sellers who purchase the consumer’s information. Consumers who, for example, wish to receive information on mortgage rates do not need or desire mortgage related solicitations in perpetuity. Rather, in most instances, the consumer will either refinance or purchase a home, or they will change their mind after some time and no longer wish to receive solicitations.

However, when third-party lead generators collect and sell a consumer’s consent, the consumer cannot effectively revoke consent after the consumer’s need for mortgage information has passed. Rather, each time the lead generator sells the consumer’s information, and a seller calls, the consumer must answer the unwanted robocall and revoke consent to the individual seller. This is another important reason why the Commission's rules should not be amended to permit web-based consent from one consumer to apply to multiple sellers, even sellers of logically or topically related services.

The March 2023 FNPRM suggests a clear line in the sand in its proposal to “ban the practice of obtaining a single consumer consent as grounds for delivering calls and text messages from multiple marketers on subjects beyond the scope of the original consent.” However, the State AGs respectfully submit that the Commission's proposed solution will not achieve this result. Under the Commission's proposed amendments, multiple entities would be legally permitted to rely on the consent provided to another, totally separate entity. Instead of hyperlinks to separate websites, it is likely that hundreds, if not thousands, of so-called ‘marketing partner’ names will be crammed onto consent pages. Sellers, telemarketers, and voice service providers will most likely declare such practice is ‘clear and conspicuous’ because all the consumer has to do to see the fine print is to click on the magnifying glass icon to increase the size of the font on the computer screen.

In summary, the proposed amendment in Appendix C of the March 2023 FNPRM will not achieve the intended purpose, but it will open doors to new tricks and gimmicks. Instead, the Commission should simply clarify and reiterate that consent under the TCPA is between one specific consumer and one specific seller. If another seller wants consent to send robocalls to that consumer, then that other seller should independently obtain consent—no more hyperlinks, no more ‘marketing partners,’ and no more confusion.

(ii) The Commission Should Confirm Compliance with the Federal E-Sign Act

The Code also requires the written consent for telemarketing to comply with the federal Electronic Signatures in Global and National Commerce Act (“E-Sign Act”).³⁵ The Code states that the called party’s “signature shall include an electronic or digital form of signature, to the extent that such form of signature is recognized as a valid signature under applicable federal law or state contract law.”³⁶ The E-Sign Act enables the validity and enforceability of electronic signatures. Pursuant to the E-Sign Act, an “electronic signature means an electronic sound, symbol, or process, attached to or logically associated with a contract or other record and executed or adopted by a person with the intent to sign the record.”³⁷

Hence, basic E-Sign law requires that for every agreement made electronically, there be four separate elements to constitute consent: (1) an electronic sound or process, such as the click of a mouse; (2) that is attached to or logically associated with a contract or agreement; (3) executed or adopted by the person; (4) with the intent to sign the agreement. Simply put, one cannot intend to sign an agreement when one does not know what the agreement is. Consequently, extending permission for telemarketing to entities and for services that are not specifically identified on the webpage where the consumer clicks to give permission to a specific seller does not provide the requisite intent.

In the Commission’s 2012 TCPA Order, the Commission concluded that “consent obtained in compliance with the E-Sign Act will satisfy the requirements of its revised rule, including permission obtained via an email, website form, text message, telephone keypress, or voice recording.”³⁸ The Commission further concluded that “[a]llowing documentation of written consent under the E-Sign Act [would] minimize the costs and burdens of acquiring prior express written consent for autodialed or prerecorded telemarketing calls while protecting the privacy interests of consumers.”³⁹

In addition to restricting prior written consent for telemarketing to one specific seller, current Commission rules require the consent to be in writing and comply with federal E-Sign Act requirements. Accordingly, the undersigned State AGs request that the Commission reiterate that practices such as those employed by Assurance, as described above, violate Commission rules. Claims by “marketing partners” (listed on a separate webpage or website) that a consumer’s mouse click provided valid written consent for telemarketing are invalid. Moreover, because the E-Sign Act requires that the agreement be presented in writing,⁴⁰ there is no authority for concocting oral consent during a robocall.⁴¹

(iii) Reaffirming that the Current Rule Already Requires One Consent to One Seller at a Time Will Not Limit the Value of Comparison- Shopping Sites to Consumers.

As mentioned above, the Commission also requested the following input concerning its proposed modification of its rule regarding preexisting consumer consent to telemarketing calls and texts to allow one consent to apply to multiple sellers:

Consumers may find comparison shopping websites helpful; how can we ensure that they can consent to obtain further information from the site without receiving numerous calls and texts from unrelated companies? Commenters should discuss whether our proposal would limit the value of comparison-shopping sites to consumers.⁴²

In the opening comment period, several commenters that support or operate comparison-shopping websites supported modifying the rule to expand consent to multiple sellers, arguing that requiring one consent per consumer would reduce access to and increase the cost of credit, deprive consumers of choice, and stifle competition.⁴³ For example, Lending Tree represents:

[The] proposal will harm consumers, consumer welfare, and the competition that comparison-shopping websites promote among multiple providers and sellers. Such a limitation undermines the very reason that a consumer seeks out and visits a comparison-shopping website, which is to obtain simultaneous offers from multiple, competing sellers and providers, rather than having to shop from seller to seller on their own.”⁴⁴

Similarly, Drips, which describes itself as a “conversational outreach platform that helps compliant businesses set appointments with consumers who have existing business relationships or provided written consent to be contacted for specific purposes,”⁴⁵ claims:

Suggesting that consent should only be able to be made in a 1:1 fashion is an oversimplification to a nuanced problem. This would effectively kill all comparison-shopping websites, consumer choice, and online marketplaces as we know it.⁴⁶

⁴² March 2023 FNPRM at 23, ¶61.

⁴³ See e.g., Comments of Lending Tree, LLC, CG Docket No. 02-278 (May 8, 2023) (“Lending Tree Comments”); Letter from Drips, CG Docket No. 02-278 (May 8, 2023) (“Drips Letter”); Letter from Online Lenders Alliance, CG Docket No. 02-278 (May 8, 2023).

⁴⁴ Lending Tree Comments at 12.

⁴⁵ Drips Letter at 1.

⁴⁶ Id. at 3.

The State AGs disagree that enforcing the existing rule would harm consumer welfare and “effectively kill all comparison-shopping websites.” Comparison-shopping websites such as Lending Tree provide a service to consumers by gathering potential credit options in one place, but they do not perform a hard credit pull and do not provide firm offers of credit. As a result, consent is not necessary for their services to be offered and any related benefit to be rendered. Rather, consumers could use these services and then select the lender or lenders they wish to hear from individually. It is not necessary that a consumer be required to agree to receive robocalls or robotexts from multiple, potentially hundreds of other lenders in order for them to access the services of comparison-shopping websites.

Indeed, it is permissible under the current rules for a comparison-shopping site to collect express consent from individual sellers for telemarketing calls or texts on their websites. The website simply must clearly and conspicuously disclose the names of the sellers that may contact the consumer and ask the consumer to consent specifically to each seller from which they agree to receive calls or texts. The current rule does not prevent sellers from obtaining express consent. Therefore, the current rule does not undercut the business model insofar as that model relies on sellers obtaining specific consent from a consumer on a one-by-one basis.

In short, enforcing the rules to require pre-existing written consent to call or text a consumer for purposes of telemarketing from one consumer to one seller at a time will not reduce consumer access to credit, deprive consumers of choice, or stifle competition in the comparison-shopping industry. Rather, enforcing the current rule better protects consumers by requiring that they proactively consent to receiving further information from other companies. The State AGs therefore ask the Commission to reject commenter claims that enforcing the current rule would impair the value of comparison-shopping sites to consumers.

III. TEXT MESSAGES

A. The Illegal Text Problem

With the advent of mobile phones, the speed and the ease with which we communicate with others has increased exponentially. This increased speed creates circumstances that make consumers more vulnerable to robotext fraud. Consumers rely upon their mobile phones to receive communications that are characteristically short, but often important. As such, it is easier for bad actors to disguise their identities through a text message, in comparison to an illegal robocall or phishing e-mail. During a phone call or while reading an e-mail, the would-be victim has additional time to identify the scam, whereas this is not so with a short text message containing a malicious link. Simply by tapping (inadvertently or purposefully) the link in a text, consumers may expose their phones to malware and viruses. Given the amount of personal information contained on our cellular phones, the potential financial and personal privacy harms are vast.

The evidence already before the Commission supports a need to enact effective rules to address the continuing threat scam robotexts pose to consumers. As the Commission recognized, the number of spam text messages that wireless providers blocked grew ten times, from an estimated 1.4 billion in 2015 to 14 billion in 2020.⁴⁷ In addition, consumers have reported $231 million in losses from text message scams in the first three quarters of 2022, which is greater than the losses reported in 2020 and 2021 combined.⁴⁸

⁴⁸ Id. at 4, ¶ 6.

To curb the onslaught of illegal robotexts, the Commission seeks comment on whether it should adopt processes similar to those in place for illegal robocalls. Specifically, the Commission proposes, inter alia, to require terminating providers to block texts from a sender after the providers are on notice from the Commission that the sender is sending illegal texts, and to extend the National Do-Not-Call (“DNC”) Registry’s protections to text messages.⁴⁹ The State AGs commend the Commission’s attention to the particular issue of illegal robotexts, distinct from the issue of illegal robocalls, and support the Commission’s efforts to review, clarify, and refine rules that aim to enhance protections for consumers and honor their requests not to be bombarded by illegal robotexts.

B. Blocking Texts upon Commission Notification

In the March 2023 FNPRM, the Commission proposes to “require terminating mobile wireless providers to investigate and potentially block texts from a sender after they are on notice from the Commission that the sender is transmitting suspected illegal texts, similar to [the Commission’s] requirement for gateway providers with respect to voice calls.”⁵⁰ Based on the Commission’s proposal, the State AGs presume that the Commission’s Enforcement Bureau would issue an official notice of suspected illegal texts to a terminating mobile wireless provider (“terminating provider”).⁵¹ The terminating provider would then promptly investigate the identified text(s) and either block the texts and substantially similar texts on an ongoing basis or ⁴⁹ Id. at 3, ¶ 4.

⁵⁰ Id. at 20, ¶ 50.

⁵¹ Id. at 20, ¶ 52.

respond to the Commission that the terminating provider has a reasonable basis for concluding that the identified texts are not illegal.⁵²

To begin, the State AGs support the principle that all entities in the wireless messaging ecosystem have an obligation to do their part to preserve the trust in, and utility of, messaging services.⁵³ This includes those providers who ultimately deliver illegal texts to consumers. However, because State AGs, along with the Commission, also understand that the messaging and voice ecosystems each have significantly different infrastructures,⁵⁴ we are mindful that comparable success in mitigating illegal robotexts may not precisely align with the playbook that has been so effectively devised and refined by the Commission to mitigate illegal robocalls.

Therefore, to the extent that the Commission has determined that extending the robocall blocking protocols to robotexts will actually bring a measurable benefit to consumers across the country in preventing fraud, the State AGs support such a proposal. The State AGs further urge the Commission to continue exploring ways in which rules specific to the unique infrastructure, players, and technology of messaging and robotexting can be proposed and deployed to effectively and efficiently mitigate the continuing, burgeoning threat targeting our consumers.

⁵³ See CTIA, Messaging Principles and Best Practices, <https://www.ctia.org/the-wireless-industry/industry-commitments/messaging-interoperability-sms-mms> (last visited May 2, 2023) (enumerating a set of voluntary best practices developed in July 2019 by CTIA, the messaging industry association, and its member companies throughout the wireless messaging ecosystem).

⁵⁴ Reply Comments of Fifty-One (51) State Attorneys General, Targeting and Eliminating Unlawful Text Messages at 4, CG Docket No. 21-402 (Dec. 9, 2022).

C. Clarifying Do-Not-Call Protections for Text Messages

To the extent that it may be unclear, the Commission proposes to “clarify that the National DNC Registry protections apply to text messages as well as voice calls and to codify this clarification in [the Commission’s] rules.”⁵⁵ Previously, the Commission has stated that “text messages” are “calls” for TCPA purposes and has taken the position that the National DNC Registry protects consumers from unwanted marketing text messages.⁵⁶ However, the Commission has not explicitly included text messages in the codified DNC rules.⁵⁷

As the Commission recognized, the National DNC Registry has been operational for almost twenty years and currently protects over 246 million telephone numbers from telemarketing sales calls.⁵⁸ As with our respective state DNC registries, the National DNC Registry is popular among consumers, as it provides a means through which consumers can exercise a modicum of control over the marketing telecommunications they choose to receive.

The State AGs support the Commission’s proposal to clarify that the National DNC Registry protections will apply to marketing text messages. Such clarification is a common-sense approach to eliminate any potential confusion in the industry and has the added benefit of providing protection to consumers regardless of whether the texting party utilizes an autodialer.⁵⁹

IV. CONCLUSION

The undersigned State AGs thank the Commission for the opportunity to present these comments in this proceeding and reaffirm our commitment to work with the Commission in combatting illegal robocalls and text messages. We respectfully urge the Commission to take this opportunity to shut down these unreliable and illegal methods of purportedly obtaining consent from consumers for marketing robocalls and texts. To that end, the State AGs recommend the Commission issue an Order that clarifies and confirms that its existing rules concerning “prior express written consent” contemplate consent between a specific consumer and one specific seller. This measure, as well as the other recommended measures set forth above, will ultimately better protect consumers from unwanted robocalls and text messages, which is a goal that the Commission and the State AGs collectively share.
